COUNCIL MEETING.

Mayor Appoints G. W. Frick

COUNCILMAN FROM 1st WARD

Proper Sanitarium Discussed by Many Citizens

The city council met last night in the council chambers with Mayor Divers in the chair, and all the councilmen present.

Mayor Divers appointed G. W. Frick as councilman from the 1st ward to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of the councilman elected from that ward. The council then confirmed the appointment, and congratulated the new member.

The Mayor showed good judgment in his selection as Mr. Frick is a man of strong personality and plenty of stiff backbone. Once he is certain that he is right no amount of argument will shake him from his position.

The council at its previous session had voted to extend an invitation to the public to meet with them at their next session and discuss the questions of sanitation and the most expeditious way to raise funds with which to grade the streets.

When the council convened there were nearly fifty people in the room. Dr. Hume spoke on sanitation, expressing it as his opinion that it was hardly possible that the wells contained typhoid germs washed into the wells from sheet water. He stated that there was a strata of hard pan soil under Anadarko that was almost impervious to water. Dr. Mitchell was largely of the same opinion, while Dr. Tonge and Dr. Kissecker contended that the germs were in the sheet water that had seeped into the wells and was in a great measure responsible for the seeming epidemic of typhoid fever which is abroad in Anadarko. Mr. Hammond spoke upon the question of a special tax levy, expressing himself as opposed to it, but when confronted with the fact that it would be impossible to grade the streets for at least four years unless a special tax was levied. He said that "if we were up against that kind of a proposition he had nothing more to say." He complimented the council, expressing it as his belief that they were working for the good of Anadarko and that under their rule a republican would be safe for a thousand years.

On motion the council adjourned.

An Old Citizen to Leave

Capt. B. F. Harcastle, one of Chandler's earliest citizens, is preparing to sell his property and move to the new country.

Capt. Harcastle has been closely identified with the growth of Chandler since the day of the opening when he was one of the first to set foot on her streets. He took the census of the town prior to its incorporation when it was found to contain 996 inhabitants. He was elected clerk and assessor of the town at the time of its incorporation in May, 1892, a position which he held until 1897. He was again elected in 1899 and still holds the position.

The first Sunday school held in Chandler was organized by the Captain on what is now the court house square on the 28th day of September, 1891. He was also prominent in the work of raising funds for and building the Congregational church, the first church built in the town. He was clerk of the board of directors of that church throughout its existence and is one of its few members still living here.

Capt. Harcastle is an active member of the G. A. R. and he has always been ready and willing to assist in every enterprise for the upbuilding of the town. He has probably circulated petitions for more public enterprises than all other citizens combined.—Chandler Publicist.

While we sympathize with Chandler in losing so good a citizen, we are glad to welcome him into our midst. He is the father of our city attorney, Verde V. Harcastle, and we are glad that Anadarko is to have such a man as Capt. Harcastle as one of her citizens.

Today is the second day of the beef issue to the Indians and all the livery rigs in the town are engaged by those who are going out to see this unusual sight.

Messrs C. P. Hollingsworth, S. C. Richmond, W. P. Riley, Misses Thompson, Bausley and Nellie Brown, of Cliff, visited in the city Sunday. The party were the guests of B. H. Miller. They took supper at the Hotel Florence.

H. F. Dorder, Oscar Dieher, E. A. Ewing accompanied by Mr. Frank Heffey, our marshal, called at this office. They are staunch democrats and are situated on a claim in southeast half of section 9-8-11. They came in to lay in a quantity of supplies.

The following ladies secured a rig and drove out to witness the beef issue to the Indians yesterday: Mesdames Moore, Kritzer, Matheny, Shaw, McVicker, Wooden, Conner, Black, Glitch, Randolph. They had more fun than a basket of monkeys, and were well repaid for their trip.

Trunks, Trunks, Trunks, at prices that are pleasing in their smallness. The Columbia.

Dr. Hume's two fine saddle ponies were stolen last night between 8 and 9 o'clock from in front of the stores on E street. Dr. Hume's two sons had ridden to town on them and fastened them while they attended to some business. When they returned the horses were gone. They have telephoned to all near towns to watch for them. If any of these robbers are caught they will probably be given a dance on blue air as an example.

DROPPING GENTLY.

Secretary of the Interior was Very Busy.

BUT WILL SEE JENKINS.

Governor May Have a Statement to Publish Later

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—Gov. Jenkins went up to the interior department this morning and later this afternoon saw Secretary Hitchcock for a half hour. There was a preliminary talk about the charges against the governor but as the secretary was busy and could give the governor but little time he is to call again tomorrow. At the Dewey Hotel this evening the governor stated that he had nothing to say at present but might give out a statement later. He insisted to your correspondent that he had been given a "rocky deal" but in answer to that was confronted with the fact that only the news about his case had been wired to Oklahoma and that by a correspondent that was a stranger to him and who was absolutely without bias as to the affairs of Oklahoma. If he could overcome the prejudice against him that the authorities here had by reason of the charges that now was his personal opportunity to vindicate himself and secure re-appointment.

Ex-Representative Clifton R. Breckenridge, of the Dawes commission, saw the Interior department officials today regarding the Creek nation.

A Warm Parody

The Bookman's parodies on that Englishwoman's love letters are rather pat: Ownest—When I woke this morning my windows were covered with a thick, white frost, my bath tub was an improvised skating pond, and the mercury in the thermometer outside had forced a hole through the bulb at the base of the tube and disappeared. I was just dangling one timorous creamy magnolia-white foot over the edge of the bed, into the icy crackling void of circumambient cold, when the door opened and Juggijs (that housemaid, beloved, is already pensioned against senility!)—Juggijs brought me your letter. Ownest, think of it. Five hours had elapsed since I had heard from you!

IF YOU DO, DON'T

These Laws of Etiquet are English and Therefore Correct. Don't You Know

An English writer on matters of etiquette gives the following rules for the benefit of those that are uncertain of how to comport themselves properly at table:

AT BREAKFAST.

Do not leave your spoon in your teacup.

Crack the top off your egg instead of peeling it.

If you have bacon or fish have a separate plate for your bread or toast and butter, but not when you are having only boiled eggs, which require very careful eating, by the by, as nothing looks so nasty as yolk of egg spilt all over the plate and egg cup.

Do not sip your coffee or tea with a spoon.

Do not drain your teacup.

AT LUNCHEON AND DINNER.

Do not empty every drop of soup from your plate.

Do not drink your soup from the point of your spoon but from the side.

Do not put salt or pepper on the side of your plate, in fact in France it is bad form to ever take salt or pepper when dining out, as it is considered as an insinuation that the cook has not flavored the food properly.

For fish do not use a desert knife instead of a fish knife; if there be no fish knife, use a small crust of your bread, but leave that crust of bread on your plate. Do not eat it afterward, as so many people do.

Do not be dainty and fringe your plate with bits of meat; eat what you can, and put any skin or bone on the edge of your plate in one little heap, which move down from the edge when you have finished.

Do not crumple up your napkin. If you are only a guest of the day do not fold it up, but if you are staying on and in a quiet household fold it up. If you are staying in a big house where everything is done "en grand prince," do not fold it up; just place it on the table when you leave, as in rich establishments there are clean table napkins every day.

After eating it is well before you drink to wipe your lips, otherwise you leave a smeary mark on the glass.

Do not gulp liquids and bolt food.

Do not masticate or swallow audibly.

Do not pile your plate with food or grasp your knife, plate or spoon as if it were a weapon of warfare.

Do not crumble the bread by your side or drain your glass to the last drop.

On the other hand do not be affected, and eat as if an appetite was a crime, drink as if you were a dicky-bird, and hold your knife, fork or spoon as if they were red-hot needles.

Don't forget Miss Carridy's reduction sale.

ANNUAL BEEF ISSUE

Of the Government to the Indians

THEY SEEM TO ENJOY IT

Uncle Sam's Children Gets a Hunk of Beef Weighing 15 Pounds For Each Member of the Family

A reporter of the DEMOCRAT went out to the scene of the issuing of beef rations to the Indians this morning, and while there had the pleasure of seeing how the Indians receive their beef supply.

To us it was a novel sight. There were Indians of all descriptions, old ones, middle-aged and young ones. They seem to look forward to this as an honored occasion. While there, they ran two steers into a chute and an Indian, a stout, ungaily fellow, got behind them and at the crack of his revolver each time a steer dropped. He is an excellent shot.

They then dragged the beeves into the slaughterhouse and in a way similar to our custom, skinned them. Then each one got his share according to the members in the family and rode away apparently happy.

Not even a hoof or head goes to waste. On some bows of wagons around [the slaughter house were hanging strips of beef cut in long strips for the purpose of drying.

The squaws, as a matter of course, did most of the work, such as gathering the legs or hoofs and the heads.

They will undoubtedly have a feast of meat for a while. There is quite a stockade or corral built to hold the cattle, resembling the ordinary cattle pens of railroads. They kill in all about 32 beeves each time. About the same number at Fort Sill and a corresponding number at each of the other posts. It is a sight worth the trip.
